Our community, our nation, and the entire world experienced a very difficult year in 2020. I feel confident, however, that in 2021 our nation and our region will get closer to getting the COVID-19 virus under control. This is thanks, in part, to an amazing vaccine and also to your efforts to follow state guidelines.

I am so proud to be a part of a health system that not only has made great efforts to be there for our patients during this crisis, but also to take part in clinical trials on one of the COVID-19 vaccines being used now.

We thank you for your patience as we moved our patient care services to nearby Henry Ford locations so we could transform Henry Ford Medical Center – Hamtramck into a site to treat only those patients with respiratory symptoms due to the virus. We will get back to offering our normal clinical services as soon as this community health crisis is under control. Until that time, you can continue to receive excellent care from your providers at their temporary locations.

Henry Ford Health System offers a variety of ways for you and your family to get same-day primary care services 24 hours a day, seven days a week, sometimes without leaving your home. Learn more about our same-day primary care services at HenryFord.com/SameDay or call us at 313-992-9000. For information about COVID-19, please visit HenryFord.com/coronavirus.

We are honored to be a part of this vibrant community and are committed to serving you and your family for many years to come.

In good health,

Marianne Langlois, MSA
Practice Director

Hello Hamtramck, and Welcome to our annual Official City Business Directory!

I don't have to be the one to tell you that this year has been unlike any other in memory.

Nor are many of us sorry to see 2020 go. Looming over the year was a worldwide coronavirus pandemic, one that's presently on the verge of having infected a billion people, and which has killed over two million worldwide so far, and which has put many economies, large and small, on the brink of disaster.

America's businesses and industries have suffered like no time since perhaps the Great Depression. Certain industries, such as those making hand sanitizer or masks, have done all right or even flourished, some have stayed about the same; but many, including the bar and restaurant industries, entertainment industries, travel-related industries, casinos, and even the auto parts industry have taken massive hits.

Some, such as the movie theaters or certain bars, restaurants or retailers, may never recover, and sadly we may end up losing more than a few of them permanently. Amid this gloomy reality, there is hope: the virus is better understood now; people are clamoring to rejoin society; warmer weather is coming, where more outdoor activities can happen more easily and involve more people.

It has been no different in Hamtramck. The city's mayor, Karen Majewski, has been giving weekly Monday updates -- primarily concerned with the virus, and its local effects. Some of our businesses have been closed for ten months and counting. Times have been tough here, as everywhere around the globe, to varying degrees.

Within this difficult climate, we have attempted to provide you, the citizens of this wonderful city, with a Business Directory that is as accurate and up-to-date as humanly possible. Bear in mind that many businesses, while still open, may have significantly reduced, or otherwise altered, their hours, or even days, of operation. In conclusion, let's all hope for, visualize, pray for, and expect a much, much better 2021; one where we can all return to a more normal way of living, a dare-I-say American way of living free – a Hamtramck way of living.

Please patronize our city's businesses, now more than ever – for everyone's sake!

And mention to them that you saw them in Hamtramck's Official City Business Directory.

Stay safe, stay strong, stay sane, and thank you from the bottom of our hearts for your continued support of The Hamtramck Review!

History in a time of crisis

By Greg Kowalski

It’s common for people to ask, how are things going at the Hamtramck Historical Museum?

The curiosity has a special meaning, of course, because of the Covid-19 pandemic. That has impacted the entire world in many ways. Museums have been especially hard hit since in-person visitors are so important to what they do.

Most museums have closed, at least temporarily, for some time during the last year. The Hamtramck Historical Museum is no different. We were closed from mid-March to July of last year. Further, we have suspended all in-building programs until the pandemic lifts.

We are open on a limited schedule now – 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Everyone entering the building must wear a mask.

This has been a trying experience, but it also has been a learning one. The museum is a small, all-volunteer operation with a limited budget.

We don’t have a large cushion to protect us from financial crises, yet we are not in danger of failing financially. In fact, we are going to embark on a major building renovation within a few months. You will be hearing much more about that soon.

We can do this because we have tremendous supporters.

More than 100 people have joined our Friends of Historical Hamtramck group, which supports the museum. And we have received many other donations and grants.

As one major donor told us, “I like what you’re doing.”

And what are we doing?

Simply put, we are preserving and promoting the history of Hamtramck. Hamtramck has a unique, wonderful history. It is a tale of immigration and diversity that stretches back hundreds of years and is more relevant than ever today.

You will find that story told with special meaning at the Hamtramck Historical Museum.

For more information about the museum, visit us, or go to our website, www.hamtramckhistory.org.

We’ve got so many stories to share.

(Mr. Kowalski is an author and Executive Director of the Hamtramck Historical Museum. The Hamtramck Historical Museum is located 9525 Joseph Campau.)
Hamtramck had an interesting year in 2020, and this year promises to be even more exciting.

So far, residents have not skipped a beat on the marijuana issue that has lingered over from last year. In fact, it’s heating up – at least on social media where a lively back-and-forth exchange is taking place between those who oppose allowing recreational pot stores from operating here and those in favor.

The issue has also widened a cultural divide.

The Bengali and Yemeni communities – who happen to be Muslim – have been behind the effort to prevent this type of business, and the young white community is determined to make it happen.

That divide has played out in the city council where the Muslim majority members have recently adopted an ordinance to ban future marijuana outlets from operating here.

Two dispensaries – and at the time this was published maybe a couple more – were able to open up when it was still legal to do so here in town.

The debate has not only been intense, but at times has spurred ethnically divisive language.

This issue isn’t going anywhere soon.

While all this is happening, Hamtramck’s city government continues its march into financial insolvency.

The issue has also widened a cultural divide.

Karen Majewski will seek another term. If so, and she wins, she would be the longest serving mayor in Hamtramck.

For most students, so far stay-at-home virtual learning is in place, although Gov. Gretchen Whitmer is allowing in-person classroom learning to return.

Local public school officials have been studying how to bring back students and make sure they are safely protected.

Hamtramck’s bar and restaurant scene continues to be heavily handcuffed with on again, off again statewide bans on dining and drinking inside venues.

Several of our clubs are also where live music is performed. The music scene – here and nationwide – has taken a huge hit.

There is also a question of how many bars and restaurants can survive a prolonged shutdown.

Paczki Day was also affected. Our bars, veteran posts and restaurants were limited to how many could come inside at one time. Hamtramck’s annual party just didn’t have that usual vibe.

And it also looks like that once again the annual Hamtramck Music Festival and Hamtramck Labor Day Festival – and various other church festivals – will have to take another pass.

Dang this COVID.

For some, the work beats on. The reconstruction of Caniff, from the I-75 freeway to Jos. Campau is scheduled to take place this year. Just when it begins is not yet known. The project is out of local control, and is being overseen by the state Department of Transportation, which is funding it.

The Caniff road reconstruction continues a larger effort to repair the city’s aging streets and water and sewer system.

During the last two years, Holbrook was rebuilt, including the installation of new water and sewer pipes. Also, for the past few years, the city’s aging alleys have been repaved, but only a handful were resurfaced each year.

Once again, The Review will be here for another year to record the never-ending winding road of Hamtramck life.
See for yourself.

There’s more than you imagine here.
