Amnesty Program returns

By Alan Madlane
Ticket Amnesty...
Now's the chance to clear your good name.
The 31st District Court, located at 3401 Evaline St. between Gallagher and Jos. Campau, is temporarily inviting you to pay off your outstanding tickets at a reduced rate.
The program, which appears from time to time, began again this past Tuesday, Feb. 18, and continues through March 31. After that, it'll be back to full costs – and presumably, they'll have that much more time to focus on you, since they'll have cleaned quite a bit off of their dockets.
There is no way to know when the court might offer this program again.
Standard court hours are Monday - Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. On two Tuesdays next month – March 3 and 24 – they will have extended hours until 6 p.m.
But perhaps the best news is, that if you don't wish to go to the court in

Paczki Day is Hamtramck's very own boozy Mardi Gras

By Charles Sercombe
Rest up this weekend, because you'll need it.
Paczki Day is next Tuesday, Feb. 25, but the festivities start this Saturday (Feb. 22) with the annual 5K Paczki Run in the morning, and a pre-Paczki Day countdown in a big tent that will be set up in the Hamtramck Town Center parking lot at Jos. Campau and Holbrook.
And this being Hamtramck, beer will be on hand to ease your way into the full-blown Mardi Gras party to come.
You'll then have Sunday and Monday to recharge your batteries for the Big Day on Tuesday.
And if you survive that, there's more fun later in the week, with the Hamtramck Music Fest that runs Thursday through Saturday.

Get all that?
Well, look at it this way: it's no longer Paczki Day around here. Instead, it's Paczki Week – just when you may have wondered how much bigger and crazier Hamtramck's very own holiday can get.
As usual, the city's bakeries are already gearing up for the crush of paczki lovers – and we're talking around-the-clock demand from thousands of folks.
Our local bars and service halls will also be buzzing.

Thousands visitors will be descending into Hamtramck starting with Saturday's 5K Paczki run, and then again on Tuesday for Paczki Day. You may want to stock up on your paczki before because our bakeries are going to be jammed.

Your guide to where the best paczki can be found

By Charles Sercombe
Just follow the paczki scent to these locations:
Where are the best paczki? The most well-known bakery is New Palace at Hamtramck, of course.

The fun doesn't stop after Paczki Day. The annual Hamtramck Music Fest returns, starting next Thursday.

Hamtramck Music Fest just keeps getting better and better

By Alan Madlane
Hamtramck's hippest music fest is on the horizon once again.
Specifically and officially called the "Hamtramck Music Fest" so there's no mistaking, it boasts a lineup bursting at the seams with all manner of auditory pleasures.
And best yet, you can enjoy the whole weekend for a mere $15, which gets you an all-venue wristband. More on that later.
One of the first things one encounters at their website's gates is a statement of tolerance.
"The Hamtramck Music Fest has a Zero Tolerance Policy regarding harassment, discrimination of any kind, and matters of public safety," they state.

Foreclosure looms for some in city

By Charles Sercombe
For about 100 Hamtramck property owners, it's time to pay up.
According to the Wayne County Treasurer's Office, those property owners have failed to pay their 2017 property taxes, and will therefore soon enter into the final phase before the county holds its annual tax auction.
The list of properties facing foreclosure can be found on the treasurer's website.
There is at least one familiar face in the crowd. Former City Councilmember Saad Almasmari is once again behind on his taxes for a home he owns at 2267 Faber St. He owes the county $1,887 for the year 2017, and is also behind on his 2018 taxes.

Almasmari is no stranger to being a tax delinquent. It's something that haunted him while he served on council. There has rarely been a time when he was not delinquent.
His excuse has been that he is simply broke – much like many other Hamtramckans.
Almasmari lost his bid to win re-election in the August Primary Election.
Other notables include a well-known teacher.
And if the owner of a

For those who like to see people gorge themselves on paczki, head over to PLAV Post 10 hall on Jos. Campau at noon for the annual paczki eating contest. Trust us, it's not for the faint of heart.

The post will also host bands all day and night.

Over at Small's Bar at Caniff and Conant, you can down what they call "Paczki Bombs," which is just what you suspect: paczki infused with booze.

The Motor City Sports Bar has its own take on paczki, with a thing they call a Paczki Burger. If you guessed it's a burger with a paczki as its bun, you would be correct.

It should be noted that American Coney Island in downtown Detroit came up with paczki Coney dogs.

Oh boy, we're either stuffed or grossed out already.

The list of things one can do with a paczki continues to evolve.

New this year is a vodka that has the taste of a paczki – the jam and dough and all of it.

The folks at Detroit Distillery jumped on the paczki bandwagon and came up with the concoction. According to the Detroit News, the Eastern Market distillery made this using 12 dozen raspberry paczkis, supplied by New Palace Bakery from right here in town.

What could possibly be next – Paczki tacos? Paczki pierogi? (Oh no, what have we just unleashed??!!)

The paczki vodka is being distributed around the metro area, but you might want to head over the distillery on your own. And hurry up, because you can't get it past Feb. 25.

We couldn't get away with a Paczki Day story without mentioning Hamtramck's favorite party band, The Polish Muslims.

This year, the guys and gals of the band have decided to slow it down a notch, and play at only one venue – instead of hauling their behinds and equipment to three separate bars.

Yes, their bodies may be fortified with paczki, but, hey, it's time to do the slow roll, and The Polish Muslims will be playing at Ant Hall on Caniff from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Hey, that's still a long set to play.

Hamtramck's other entertainment fave is Danny "D," who will start the day early – at 7 a.m., in New Dodge Lounge.

Now if you haven't been there on Paczki Day, you're going to be in for some ancient Roman-era debauchery.

We're kidding. Sort of.

But you will see a wall-to-wall group of people drinking early and hard. Bar owner Cathy Gordon is your host, and chances are she'll end up on top of the bar pouring booze down the throats of her customers.

Just another day in Hamtramck.

Did we leave anything out?

Not sure, but we're already exhausting and excited just thinking about Paczki Day.

See you around town folks!

9833 Jos. Campau. Folks wait up to three hours to get a dozen or more of these treats. You can beat the rush by buying your paczki starting this Sunday at 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.; then again on Monday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Fat Tuesday, the bakery opens at 3 a.m. and goes until there is no more paczki.

One way to cut down on your wait is to call ahead and place an order. New Palace can be reached at (313) 875-1334.

New Martha Washington Bakery is saying the heck with it, and will do a marathon around-the-clock paczki sales starting on Monday at 5 a.m. and staying open through Tuesday until 8 p.m. They are also open this Sunday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

It's located at 10335 Jos. Campau, and you can call ahead at (313) 872-1988.

Off the beaten path a little bit is Family Donut at Conant and Caniff where there is a much shorter line but good paczki nonetheless.

Got a hankering for Polish food this weekend?

How about something kind of homey and one-of-a-kind Hamtramck experience?

Holy Cross Church will be serving up a "Pre-Lenten Paczki Breakfast" on Saturday, Feb. 22, starting at 4 p.m.

The church is located at Pulaski and Fleming, and there is free parking across from the church.

If you are an early riser on Paczki Day, you can grab a power breakfast starting at 7 a.m. at the Hamtramck Moose Lodge 1670 for a mere $7. Breakfast includes scrambled eggs, kielbasa, biscuits, gravy, and you guessed it, paczki.

Proceeds will go to the Hamtramck Goodfellows.

There is a cash bar if you want to get a head start on the party side of things. The fun goes until noon, and the Moose Lodge is located at 9421 Conant, just north of Holbrook.

Historical Museum broadens connections with metro area

By Alan Madlane

Renovations and improvements to the Hamtramck Historical Museum continue to march along.

The Hamtramck Historical Commission and Friends of Historical Hamtramck produced their annual report for 2019, and presented it to the city on Jan. 22.

Among the highlights:

In the Operations Department, it was noted that several new members were sworn in onto the commission's board of directors, although they were not named. The bylaws were also updated, the report states.

Restorations and upgrades continued through the past year on the museum's building, located at 9525 Jos. Campau. The main floor bathroom, in particular, was completely re-done, a project funded at least partially by a private $5,000 grant.

Painting of the rear wall in the main gallery was also finished, providing that area with a more uniform appearance.

These major renovations did limit the museum's programming over the past 12 months, it was said.

However, the museum still had success with its "Hungry for History" series, which combines an on-site dinner with a speaker's presentation on some local historical topic. The building also loaned itself out for other groups' use, including the Downriver Historical Organization.

In the meantime, there was plenty of activity in the form of different kinds of outreach.

The museum created an evolving partnership with both Wayne State University and the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency (RESA).

This came about because of a joint effort between the museum and the WSU Anthropology Department's archaeology students, during an effort to try to restore an old log cabin style home that had been rediscovered near the city's border, just into Detroit.

Unfortunately, the house had been scheduled for demolition by the City of Detroit, and in the end, small-mindedness ruled – and ruined – the day, as the structure was surreptitiously destroyed.

On the bright side, several artifacts were recovered from the resulting rubble, and preserved off-site at Wayne State. The incident also thrust all parties involved into the national spotlight, where preservationists of all stripe could bemoan Detroit's foolhardiness.

The museum also partnered with the Hamtramck Public Schools, the Michigan Department of Education, the Michigan Historical Society and, once again, Wayne County RESA to bring alive History Day for the city's school-age people. It is said to be a first of its kind teaming up.

Also, the museum's archival area continues to grow steadily. The archive now boasts over 5,000 documents of all sorts, on every aspect of the city's existence.

There is also a 15,000-strong collection of physical objects in the museum, as well as a smaller batch of maps, books, and a/v material pertinent to Hamtramck's history.

The museum is now also designated as the official repository for all de-accessed legal papers, such as old court records, city council meeting minutes, old contracts, assessments, and so on. If you seek these records, the museum is your place.

Perhaps most important of all from a city booster perspective, the library continues to hold tours of the city, often for out-of-town and even out-of-state groups.

The frequency of these tours can vary from once a month to several times a week, but they are mostly pre-arranged. Tourists often end up eating and shopping in the city, and feedback and word-of-mouth have been strong and positive.

After a bit of a downturn mid-decade, attendance to the museum has increased yearly, and in fact it easily hit a record high this year, with over 4,500 visitors passing through – an increase of almost 43% over 2018, itself an up year over 2017.

In short, the museum would seem to be prospering and thriving as never before.

They encourage all such matters be brought to their attention, and promise swift and considered response.

And that's a good thing.

But the music is the best thing. And there's slabs of it.

Things kick off this coming Thursday (Feb.

27) but only at two locales, Bar/Ter (beginning at 8 p.m.) and The High Dive (at 8:30 p.m.).

It gets going in earnest on Friday at twenty-two of the two dozen venues. Early birds can enjoy free music at the Hamtramck Library starting at 5:30 p.m., and at Café 1923 at 6 p.m.

The other 20 bars and halls break it out big time starting anytime between 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m., with most carrying on until one or two in the morning.

Saturday finds every venue, excepting the library, up and running.

And for the first time, this even includes St. Florian Church. Yes, you read that right.

The Parish is hosting three area musicians who are being allowed to play the church's majestic pipe organ. This will definitely be historic.

Review: Opinion Page

In Our Opinion

Moving the city forward requires being prepared

It seemed like a small matter in last week's city council meeting. But as is often the case, the devil's in the details. The council was presented with a resolution to update zoning requirements, and one item in that update drew quick attention. That item was the taking away of council oversight in approving site plans. Some members of the public, along with four councilmembers – Fadel Al-Marsoumi, Mohammed Hassan, Mohammed Al-somiri and Nayeem Choudhury – took issue with taking away council's role in reviewing site plans. Taking that task away, they said, would diminish the council's voice in zoning matters.

On the surface, they had a point. But it showed that the four had failed to prepare for the vote, because rejecting the update came with heavy consequences. It was pointed out that the resolution needed to be passed in order for the city to continue working with state economic officials toward streamlining the red tape that holds up economic development here. Rejection of the resolution meant the possibility of missing out on various state programs and incentives. It meant the city would get left behind. And it was also pointed out that city councilmembers do not have the expertise to make such judgment calls in the first place. That role is for members of the city's Plan Commission. As it turned out, after the resolution was rejected, the members who voted against it apparently realized their error, and agreed to allow the issue to move forward toward a final decision. There are going to be more proposals down the road to further streamline doing business in Hamtramck. It would behoove councilmembers to do their research first – such as calling the city administration – on any proposal they might question. Things are moving fast in Hamtramck, and councilmembers must get up to speed.

We'll let the festival organizers describe it: "We've asked three of the Detroit area's most creative keyboard musicians to turn their imaginations to the glorious pipe organ in St. Florian's. For about 50 minutes (each) on February 29th, they will take you on a never-heard-before, never-to-be-heard-again musical journey of secular music, refashioned for the pipe organ." The performances begin at 7:30 p.m. Delite Café, with Café 1923 again as well, bring free music to you starting at 3:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. respectively. All the rest crank it up at 7:30 (Whiskey in the Jar) and on from there. The full schedule is available at hamtramck-musicfest.org. There is a list of some two dozen places (some of them, participating locations, but others not) where you can buy a wristband for the whole affair, or you can order it online through the website. If you choose the latter method, you can then pick your wristband up at either of two will-call locations: Bar/Ter on Thursday night from 7 p.m. until 1 a.m., or Festival Headquarters at 10023 Jos. Campau (in, or adjacent to, the Harlequin Tattoo building, between Belmont and Yemans) on Friday and Saturday from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. And remember, there's a charitable angle to all this too: every year, Festival profits are donated to help Hamtramck school students' music and art programs with purchases of equipment and supplies. If you ask us, this is Hamtramck at its best. See you there.

Odds & Ends

Play ball... We noticed a post in Facebook, by Tom Derry of the Hamtramck Stadium Grounds Crew, about the huge effort by volunteers to maintain the grounds of the stadium. Spring is just around the corner, and soon the cold and snow will go away and warm temps will return. Tom had this to say about the upcoming season: "Our grounds crew will do whatever it takes to preserve the playing field at historic Hamtramck Stadium. "It's been an honor to restore the home of the Detroit Stars, and maintain the grounds where 17 members of the National Baseball Hall of Fame once played, including Detroit's own Norman 'Turkey' Stearnes. "Hope to see you in Hamtramck this spring."

Potholes... This year's mild winter temperatures have been kind to our roads ... Sort of. There seems to be fewer potholes this year, but, still, there are some out there. Our City Life columnist Walter Wasacz has watched several in particular, on Conant near Edwin, just get bigger and bigger and bigger. If anyone in the DPW has time, and if it isn't inconvenient, you might want to check out those tire shredders.

STACH

Irene Stach, 1926-2020.

Irene passed away peacefully at home, surrounded by family and her caregivers who loved her dearly. Irene was predeceased by her husband, John, and son, Paul, as well as by her sisters Helen McCraven and Virginia Brykalski. She is survived by her daughters, Marcia Sarosik (Dennis) of South Lake Tahoe, and Deena Stach (Kent Meisel) of Portland, her brother Stanley Lipka, and her sister Mary Ann Moran (Jerry). Irene relished her role as “Baci” to grandchildren Lisa and Evan Sarosik, who cherished and adored her. She was loved as Auntie

Irene by her many nieces, nephews, grand-nieces and grand-nephews and as J’Irene by her neighbors from Norwalk who were adopted family.

Irene was an active member of the Polish Women’s Alliance for many years as Financial Secretary and as a seamstress making costumes. She was an assistant youth director for the Zamek Dancers where she helped backstage for many years. Irene’s volunteer work also included time with the Sultanas of the Order of Alhambra, an organization dedicated to care of developmentally disabled children. For many years, Irene was an active parishioner at St. Florian’s Church and was a member of the Orchard Lake Auxiliary.

In 2013, Irene moved to American House West Bloomfield and was always involved in the many activities there. She never stopped playing cards and word trivia games, doing difficult crossword puzzles, knitting gifts for friends and family and of course winning at Wheel of Fortune and Jeopardy. In the last years of her life, her caregivers there joined Irene’s adopted family.

Viewing was at Jurkiewicz and Wilk Funeral Home, 2396 Caniff Ave, Hamtramck, on February 20. The funeral Mass will be at St John Paul II Parish (formerly Transfiguration Parish), 5830 Simon K, Detroit, on Friday, February 21, at 10 a.m. (pre-service viewing at 9:30). In respect of Irene’s wishes, no flowers, please – Irene was pretty firm on this point. If you’d like to honor her memory, donations may be sent to Lake Tahoe Shining Stars, 2107 James Ave, South Lake Tahoe, CA 96150. The foundation provides performing arts education to disadvantaged and special-needs youth. Or you may contribute to the charity of your choice.
